Underlying the growth of nearly all Heber business firms has been the support of the community newspaper, the Wasatch Wave. Someone once said that the formula for business success was "Early to bed, early to rise, work like the devil and advertise." The opportunity for merchants to advertise their goods or services came in the pages of the newspaper, and certainly helped in no small way to expand community business.

The newspaper was first published in 1889 in the north room of the Court House. William H. Buys, the owner, editor and manager of the paper, worked feverishly to bring the first issue into being. The hand-set. Cheltenham light-face type had arrived late from Salt Lake City and Mr. Buys burned a lot of midnight oil to get the type set and the issue ready for the March 23, 1889 publication date.

The biggest news in the four-page first issue, of course, was the birth of the paper, which Mr. Buys said was "but a tiny ripple on the great ocean of journalism." It may have seemed "tiny" then, but the newspaper has grown in size and in service until it is considered one of the state's best weekly newspapers today.

Barber shops also played their part in the business and service picture of the community. One of the best early barbers was A. L. For sanitary reasons, each regular customer had an individual shaving mug and brush that bore his name in large gold letters and often had a picture suggesting his individual trade or business.

Another early barber, Frank Epperson, opened his shop in 1905 and served the community continuously for more than 50 years. Albert Dixon worked with him for many of those years. Early advertisements by Mr. Epperson were for 25c haircuts and 15c shaves.
